No need for a free school, says head

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE headteacher of a Haverhill school has hit out at the Government's decision to allow a 'free school' to set up in Clare.

Madeleine Vigar, principal of the Castle Partnership – which includes Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, Castle Hill Middle School and Place Farm Primary School – said there were not enough students to go around to justify the new community school.

Speaking at the launch of the Vision 2031 Masterplan, which will map out Haverhill's development over the next 20 years, Ms Vigar said both Castle Manor and Samuel Ward Academy had been rated 'outstanding' in their latest Ofsted reports.

She said: "We don't need a free school in Clare.

"There are not enough pupils in this area for another school. We already have outstanding provision for our children."

As reported in the Weekly News, the Stour Valley Educational Trust recently became the first in the country to receive Government approval to start a free school, which will be state-funded but independently run.

It will be based at Clare Middle School, which is due to be closed in July, and aims to attract 210 pupils by September.

Hundreds of knives are given up across county

ALMOST 1,000 knives were handed in during the first six weeks of a year-long knife amnesty, which is now taking to the road.

Two red mobile amnesty bins will be visiting police stations across Suffolk and one of them will be situated in the foyer of Haverhill Police Station, on Swan Lane, during February and March.

Anyone who has a knife or blade they wish to dispose of safely can deposit it in the bin anonymously during opening hours from 9am to 5pm.

During the first six weeks of the Bin a Blade campaign, 977 knives were collected in the three static bins outside police stations in Bury St Edmunds, Ipswich and Lowestoft.

A number of other initiatives are planned to run alongside the countywide amnesty, including knife crime patrols in Suffolk's biggest towns and a community TV commercial raising awareness of the possible outcomes of carrying a knife.

Bin a Blade is supported by teenage knife crime campaigner Holly Watson and BBC Radio Suffolk.

Row over work led to punch-up

A DISPUTE about the standard of work carried out at a woman's home led to a fight between two men, where one ended up on the ground.

Jason Robson, 40, admitted carrying out an assault when he appeared at Ipswich Crown Court last Thursday and was given a suspended prison sentence.

He was also ordered to take part in an anger replacement training programme and a night time curfew imposed for the next 13 months.

The incident in Haverhill last June flared up in the wake of work which Robson had carried out for a woman at an address in the town.

Robson, of Larks Close, Haverhill, had confronted and assaulted victim Paul Flynn, who said he found the work done "lacking". Flynn had left Robson a message saying there would be "severe consequences" over the work, which was considered to be unsatisfactory.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Robson said he had not intended to cause harm to Mr Flynn, but a fight had broken out in which Mr Flynn suffered scratches, cuts and grazes, partly as a result of him ending up on the ground.

Andrew Thompson, defending, said: "There was a degree of provocation, or at least a very clear explanation for the incident."

Robson had considered the message from Mr Flynn to be threatening and he had gone to confront him about it, the court heard. Five references handed to the court from people who knew Robson well spoke of there being a different side to him. Robson is currently unable to work because of a medical condition.

Sentencing him to 10 months imprisonment suspended for two years, Judge David Goodin told Robson that he had carried out work for which he was not qualified and for which he had received payment. This was why he was challenged about the quality of the work.

Judge Goodin said: "Faced with that, you choose to interpret that and went to the address. There is no doubt in my mind that if you were not looking for trouble you were prepared for it."

Robson was ordered to remain under Probation Service supervision for 12 months and will also be subject to a 9pm until 6am curfew at his home address for the next 13 weeks, monitored with an electronic tag.

Judge Goodin said while he accepted Robson had a very limited income, he would make an order for him to pay a token sum of £50 in compensation to Mr Flynn.

Stitches in time to tell village history

THE history of a village is being recorded in a large patchwork creation.

The work will incorporate scenes of Weston Colville and commemorate events, people and places as part of a scheme called Sharing Stories.

The project is run by Inspire (wellbeing through arts) until September. Through oral history interviews, research, and workshops, it aims to build a picture of life over the last 100 years.

The completed patchwork will be displayed at the Flower Festival at St Mary's Church on June 25 and 26.

Some project work will be on display at the Lothbury Centre on Sunday, from 2.30-4.30pm, including artwork.

There will also be a poetry reading at 3.30pm by Clare Crossman and members of the creative writing group.

Anyone interested in joining in the project can contact Jane Pryor on (01223) 290643 or email jane@inspire.org.uk

MP's call to look to future

COMMUNITY leaders have been called to a public meeting by their MP to discuss how Haverhill can continue to prosper in the face of harsh public spending cuts.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, has organised tomorrow's meeting at New Croft football stadium, which will bring together representatives from business, local government, education and the voluntary sector. Mr Hancock said: "Over the past decade, Haverhill has developed for the better. It is a town on the up, with some terrific new facilities, outstanding schools and a thriving business community."

"This meeting will be a big chance to talk about the future of Haverhill and what we want to see for the town over the next 10 years."

Bar suffers burglary

INTRUDERS broke into a bar over night, causing damage and stealing alcohol.

The break-in happened at Bar Vu in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill between 10.30pm last Thursday and 9am the following day. Offenders broke into the bar by forcing a window and stole alcohol, audio equipment and a TV.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Guy Ainsworth at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Teenager to face court

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy is due to appear before a youth court following a house fire last year.

The boy from Haverhill, who cannot be named for legal reasons, will appear at Bury St Edmunds Youth Court on Wednesday to answer a charge of criminal damage by fire at a house in Castle Lane, Haverhill, on October 7.

Tree crash driver freed

FIRE crews had to cut a young woman out of her car after it collided with a tree.

The Haverhill woman was taken to Addenbrooke's Hospital with minor injuries, after her car left the A1307 at Horseheath at 9.30am on Tuesday.

Voices of youth help to plan town's future

TEENAGERS have helped kickstart a project to develop a vision for how their town will develop over the next two decades.

A project to map out the future of Haverhill has been launched by St Edmundsbury Borough Council. Pupils from the town's Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College were among around 100 people who attended the Haverhill Vision 2031 event on Tuesday.

A series of consultation events will now take place on a range of themes including jobs, historic and natural environment, leisure and recreation, crime and safety, education and skills, homes and communities and health.

People's views will then be used to draw up a masterplan for development of the town over the next 20 years.

Cllr John Griffiths, leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "Haverhill is now, by any standards, a success story. We are going to face ongoing challenges but the town is extremely well placed to benefit from some of the pressures of growth around the area, such as Cambridge and Stansted airport.

"We need to make sure that the growth is beneficial and does not detract from the qualities of Haverhill and the surrounding area."

Geoff Rivers, the council's chief executive, said the town had a strong manufacturing sector and cited Mansel Preforms as the kind of business that people should aspire towards.

He said: "They are one of the little gems I discovered on my trips to Haverhill."

"We need to see more firms like that creating jobs in Haverhill. There is no point at all in building another 2,500 homes without jobs in the town, with people thrashing around East Anglia for jobs and creating more congestion on the roads."

Castle Manor student Danielle Dent-Jones, 16, told the audience: "We are going to be the people who are around in 20 years' time and I think it is a good idea we are invited here to try and make the changes we want to see happen."

Drop-in events will be held at the LEAP Centre in Haverhill High Street on Saturday, February 12 from 10am-4pm, the leisure centre on March 7 from 4-7pm and the New Croft in Chalkstone Way on March 10 from 4-7pm.

Leaflets and freepost postcards are available from the Weekly News's office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

'We already have excellent schools'

■ From Page 1

That figure is set to rise to 540 in coming years.

But Keith Haisman, chairman of the trust, believed there would be enough pupils to help fill the classrooms, which would offer parents "something different" to larger, urban schools.

The Clare school has also been opposed by David Forrest, head of Sudbury Middle School, who fears it will affect his intake of pupils.

Lord Phillips of Sudbury raised the issue in the House of Lords and said free schools would siphon off pupils from more middle class families, leaving existing schools with a depleted intake.

Ms Vigar told the masterplan meeting, organised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, that the Castle Partnership wanted "to provide all-through education, integrated at all stages".

She said: "We are working with the same families, with shared expectations and boundaries have changed. Are we going to chuck out vocational qualifications because the Government says they are not right?"

"Why are we still teaching our children in 1950s buildings or blocks built in the 1970s with roofs that are falling down?"

"We know there are children who do not get the best start in life, but why shouldn't they be our next teachers and doctors."

"We have to make sure they expect the best, are taught in the best environment and given the best chance."

Law change is blow to village's parade

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A POPULAR village event will take place without its usual street parade for the first time in more than 30 years because of new policing restrictions.

The annual Kedington Meadowlark has traditionally started with a parade of floats through the village, lead by that year's Miss Meadowlark.

But at a recent Meadowlark meeting, Kedington Community Association (KCA) decided not to organise a street parade this year.

Meadowlark will still take place on June 11 and the committee is exploring alternatives activities.

The parade has been an integral part of Meadowlark for years, but changes in the law means police will no longer stop traffic while it travels around the village.

In view of measures needed to comply with the legislation, the cost of holding a parade in Kedington was considered too high.

Steve Brown, chairman of the association said: "We are not alone in making this decision. We have heard of other communities which have been forced to drop their parade or procession because of the high cost."

"The committee had a very difficult decision to make. As we know, the parade is enjoyed by everyone."

He added: "Sadly, we have to comply with the rules and this will cost – potentially reducing the amount we raise over the whole week by half. KCA relies on the money raised by Meadowlark to exist and cannot risk the expense involved."

Chief Inspector Martin Barnes-Smith said: "Suffolk Constabulary works within national guidelines on the policing of events, following a review of event policing in 2010."

"Officers are now working with event organisers to review the level of policing that can be provided for events planned for 2011, and in some cases this may be different from previous years."

"Police do not have powers to formally close roads for such events and will direct organisers to their local authority who can make the appropriate orders. Officers will then work within these legal powers to support the event, judging each on its own merits."

"Responsibility for the safety of participants and observers of events lies with the organisers, and it is important that this is properly considered."

A full week's programme is now being finalised, with some new events scheduled from June 3-12.

Heads for heights: Liam Blaydon, Claire Bowden and Jack Wilkinson are set to take the plunge.

Store staff taking Valentine's plunge

INSTEAD of falling head over heels in love this Valentine's Day, a group of supermarket staff will be jumping from a great height for charity.

Five adventurous employees at Tesco in Haverhill are doing something different this year and taking part in St Nicholas Hospice Care's adrenalin-pumping bungee jump.

On February 13, the Valentine's Fling sponsored bungee jump is taking place at Highbury Barns, in Great Cornard, and the Tesco team will be there.

The five brave participants are Liam

Blaydon, Jack Wilkinson, Lawrence Allen, Dan Patten and Claire Bowden, the store's community champion.

Claire said: "The idea for us to get involved originally came from Jack, as he had already signed himself up and then suggested a few more of us join him. I couldn't really say no, as I'm always up for supporting the hospice and I love a challenge."

Jack said, "I'm really looking forward to taking the plunge, though I'm naturally starting to feel a little apprehensive. But I guess that's all part of the fun."

Registration is still open, though time is running out. It costs just £20 per person, with teams and individuals welcome.

Each jumper will be given a time slot and sent sponsorship forms. Participants must raise £100 and all those who raise £125 or more will get a special commemorative T-shirt, and the top fundraiser will win a prize.

Fight begins to save care home

RESIDENTS are urged to sign an e-petition against a council plan to sell off a town's residential care home for the elderly.

Suffolk County Council is planning to sell all its care homes and Haverhill Town Council has started an on-line petition against the closure of Place Court in Camps Road, Haverhill, which is one of the only homes which provides essential respite care in the town.

Town councillor Margaret Marks said: "It has a wonderful reputation for the level of care it provides, and we are concerned that this building will not be of the type and age that will be attractive to private owners. With a growing elderly population, there will be a greater need for such establishments. There is already a shortage in Haverhill."

"We need at least 500 signatures to ask for a public meeting. Please help us to achieve this by going on to the website below and signing the petition."

The e-petition is now set up on Suffolk County Council's website.

House burglaries are being linked

LAPTOPS, jewellery and cash were taken in two house burglaries on the same night which are being linked by police.

In Claudian Close, Haverhill, between 7.55pm last Thursday and 4pm the following day, thieves broke into a house by forcing a lock and stole an mp3 player, a laptop and a photo of sentimental value.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to DC Jacqueline Mumford at West Suffolk CID on 01284 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

In Tasman Road, Haverhill, between 12am and 4am last Friday, thieves broke into a house and stole a laptop, jewellery, an mp3 player, cash and bank cards. An attempt was made to steal a car parked outside but it was not taken. The cards were used later that morning in Willingham, Cambridgeshire.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to DC Mike Blayney at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100.

Crime? What does it mean?

Sir, I read with interest your article in the Weekly News headed "Public called upon to help fight crime" and, having done so, I thought I should share an experience with you. Last week, I was sitting at my computer when an email arrived stating that I had successfully changed my "verified by Visa" password. This was somewhat startling to me as I had done no such thing and the email was obviously genuine. I called the bank which informed me that I had changed it, and, having been told that I had not changed the password, they quickly cancelled the card and looked at the transactions. Two had gone through, one to PC World for a laptop. I assumed that all was well and that the criminals could now easily be caught. From here, things became surreal. I was told that the bank could "not stop payment" as the payment was made via a "guaranteed" method. I was also told that no action would be taken until the money actually appeared in my transactions, and I actually formally complained, (which could only happen after the transactions appeared in my account, despite the fact we all knew they were coming). This complaint would need to be recorded on a form that would be sent to me and I would have to complete it and return it, at which point the "fraud" department would investigate. I asked the bank if they expected the criminals still to be at the address by then, and they said no. However, I would be reimbursed. 'So that's alright, I hear you cry! I called PC World who sympathised but could not stop the order, and amusingly could not tell me where the goods that had been ordered were being delivered due to the "data protection act", a typically worthless piece of legislation that protects the crooked. They would tell the police, however.

I now called upon the protectors of the innocent and upholders of the law, confident that they would swing into action and be able to apprehend the criminals. After all, did we not have an address that goods were being delivered to, and a name (mine I assume). Despite my lack of training at detective school, I pictured the scene. A policeman disguised as a delivery man with a box knocks on the door, "I have a delivery for Mr Richards," he says. "I am he," claims the criminal putting his hands out to receive his ill-gotten gains. Quick as a flash the handcuffs are on. Result!

Alas, the police could not do anything as I was not the "victim" and they had to wait for the bank to complain. This ignores the fact that someone was committing fraud by representing themselves as me. I asked if that meant that I should not report a burglar entering my neighbours' house or if I witnessed a stabbing I should not come forward as I was not the victim. I also asked what, exactly, the role of the police is in today's society as obviously crime is no longer an issue. This does not apply to fashionable crimes, of course, such as "hate crime".

So, the question is, how can I help combat crime as the things I regard as criminal appear to be acceptable? A final thought, in case anyone thinks I was not a victim: I would ask you to

MEMORIES

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, led to this response from Darren Rolls, who said "I was reading your paper when I was surprised to see a photo of myself in your Memories feature. I am standing back left, with James Dennis, Steve Robinson and Gavin Neale completing the back row. At the front is James Windle and Ben Terry."

"I can't remember the event but we all came from Clare and used to enter various five-a-side football tournaments. This photo was taken at Haverhill Sports Centre, but I'm not entirely sure of the date. I think it was either 1986 or 1987."

The photo was actually taken in March 1989!

consider who pays for this fraud? Perhaps the bankers will forgo a chunk of their bonuses to cover the cost, or perhaps bank charges are increased to cover them. I will let you guess which is the most likely.

Not bad for just 25p per day!

Sir, It was disappointing to read the letter from Glynis Evans in last week's edition, in particular her view that we do not need a town council.

I would encourage her to attend a town council meeting where members of the public can make major contributions on issues that they bring to the councillors' attention, and get involved in discussion and debate.

I would like to say we have 16 town councillors (all volunteers). There is no payment for their time and the hours they give up making Haverhill a good place for people to live and raise their families.

I have listed a number of activities that the town council has achieved for our town, during the past two years:

- Provided 15 much-needed grit bins, with plans for a further dozen in 2011.
- Funded one, and arranged for the donation of a second bus shelter.
- Arranged for the installation of safety fencing in Queensway.

- Funded the renewal of play equipment in Lowry Close.
- Funded a youth club for 10 to 13-year-olds.
- Funded more than 30 local voluntary and social organisations in the town.
- Provided funding for 3CT Community Transport Scheme.
- Attracted over 40,000 to the arts centre for a whole range of events.
- Funded Christmas lights.
- Attracted more than 10,000 people to free events including family Christmas night.
- Vintage commercial vehicle rally.
- Family fun days.
- Open air dances.
- Hallowe'en trail.

Betting shop is not needed

Sir, I just have to wonder who gave the green light for yet another betting shop to open its doors in the High Street?

It's hardly the type of shop this town is in need of – just how many betting shops are there already? Surely the agents handling the lease of the rather nice shop unit could have attracted interest from a company possibly better suited to this town's current needs.

Oh well, one day, eh?

MPs hear of Sorrel's life-saving treatment

SCHOOLGIRL Sorrel Mason was at the centre of a House of Commons debate this week on stem cell treatment.

Six-year-old Sorrel and her family will celebrate the fourth anniversary of the transplant operation which saved her life on Wednesday.

She was recently pictured by her dad out shopping with sister Daisy, 4, something she could never have done before the operation, which used umbilical cord blood from Japan.

The girls both attend Thurlow Primary School.

Dad Robert, of Great Wrating, said: "The debate in the House of Commons about umbilical cord blood related directly to Sorrel's experience in receiving a new immune system four years ago from a cord bank in Japan.

"Back then, this was fairly pioneering treatment but it is increasingly becoming the treatment of the future.

"This is why people like the Anthony Nolan Trust are campaigning to set up a national cord blood bank which could save hundreds of lives every year.

"This is a cause that we as a family are very passionate about. We are thrilled that £4 million of funding was announced during the debate.

Sorrel was put forward for a bone marrow transplant as she did not respond to the usual courses of chemotherapy after being diagnosed with acute myeloid leukaemia.

She had her transplant in February 2007 and spent 77 days in isolation. She finally came home just before her third birthday in November 2007.

Robert said she now looks and behaves like any other 6-year-old and is effectively leading a normal life.

MP David Burrows secured an adjournment debate on umbilical cord stem cells on Monday.

He told the House: "Blood stem cell transplants really are the last chance for people to whom no other treatment is available. Six-year-old

Sorrel Mason was one such person. Four years ago Sorrel's father noticed that she was looking pale, and she was eventually diagnosed with a rare strain of acute myeloid leukaemia.

"In conclusion, I draw upon the story of Sorrel Mason. Prior to her life-saving procedure, her parents had never heard of the importance of cord blood donation and its benefits for stem cell transplant patients. No one could put it better than they did when they said 'it's quite hard in this country to donate your umbilical cord'. Hopefully, as time goes by, there'll be more places that offer this life-saving opportunity."

Sorrel's mum Samantha said: "I remember the first time I saw her hooked up to all those machines. It broke my heart.

"Every day we waited for the daily blood counts. It was a miracle when eventually they came up okay."

Focus on breastfeed benefits

A MIDWIFE has been appointed as the new breastfeeding ambassador for Suffolk and aims to raise awareness of the health benefits of breastfeeding.

In her new Department of Health-funded role, Linda Page will be delivering educational and support services to women throughout the county, including Haverhill, and promoting the health benefits of breastfeeding to both mother and baby.

Linda said: "For the last 20 years I have been involved in supporting breastfeeding and have been a practising midwife for more than a decade, most recently at Ipswich Hospital.

"In my role with NHS Suffolk I will be encouraging new mothers to take up breastfeeding, as well as working with Ipswich and West Suffolk hospitals as they work towards achieving their Baby Friendly Hospital accreditation, which acknowledges a hospital's commitment to support breastfeeding.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"It is important to recognise the many benefits of breastfeeding. On average, breastfed babies have fewer infections and, in particular, they suffer less diarrhoea and vomiting, chest infections and ear infections.

"In fact, if more babies were breastfed, hospital admissions in the first year could be reduced by 50 per.

"There is also evidence to suggest that children who have been breastfed are less inclined to suffer from health problems later in life, such as obesity, high blood pressure or cholesterol.

"However, it is not only the baby that benefits from breastfeeding – as a mother there are health benefits too, with many studies indicating that women who breastfeed are less likely to suffer from breast cancer, ovarian cancer or osteoporosis.

"I look forward to my role and highlighting the importance of breastfeeding to mothers across Suffolk."

Police linking thefts

THIEVES took a catalytic converter and five gas canisters in two separate thefts on subsequent nights in the same road on an industrial estate.

Police are linking the two thefts at Rookwood Way, Haverhill.

The first happened between 12pm on Saturday and 11am on Sunday, when the catalytic converter was stolen from a white Iveco van in a yard.

In the same road, between 1pm on Sunday and 8am on Monday, offenders broke into a yard by damaging a padlock on a gate.

They then broke into a cage by damaging a padlock and stole the gas canisters that were being stored inside it.

Calls in relation to these incidents should be made to the Crime Investigation Bureau on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Haverhill

AT THEIR first meeting of the new year, Haverhill Townswomen Guild members were wonderfully entertained by Sally Sandys-Renton, who gave a talk on Cambridge and its colleges.

They learnt that the Romans settled in Castle Hill, then the Vikings made Cambridge an inland port, bringing wealth and prosperity. In 1209, the seeds of the university were sown and in 1284, Peterhouse College was founded.

St Benets church tower dates from 1025, an Anglo Saxon legacy. Kings College Chapel took the reigns of five kings to be built, the last of whom was Henry VIII. He added the stained glass windows. Members are hoping that a Blue Badge guided tour of Cambridge can be arranged at some time. Although there will not be a meeting next month due to refurbishment of the meeting room, the treasurer has asked that subscriptions be sent to her by the end of February. The next meeting will be the AGM on March 22. New members and visitors are always welcome.

Tax freeze planned to win £7.2m bonus

BY SUZAN UZEL

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE largest part of council tax bills looks set to remain unchanged next year.

Suffolk County Council, which takes the largest chunk of the annual tax bill, plans to freeze council tax. This means it can take advantage of a Government incentive worth £7.2 million.

But at the same time, the council says it must make savings of £40 million – despite a campaign of opposition from UNISON, the council workers' union.

The council's cabinet made recommendations for the budget for 2011-12 at a meeting on Tuesday. The recommendations will now go before the full council.

Suffolk council tax for an average band D property in the Forest Heath district is currently £1,126.

Cllr Jeremy Pembroke, leader of Suffolk County Council, told the Weekly News after Tuesday's meeting: "We have done all our budgeting on no increase in council tax, so we can get the whole £7 million re-directed to frontline services without having to use it to subsidise council tax."

Councils can benefit from the £7.2 million incentive as long as they do not surpass a 2.5 per cent increase in council tax.

Cllr Pembroke added: "We have, for the first time in living memory, had less money from the Government – and that has left us with a shortfall of £43 million."

He said the council is tackling a large proportion of the deficit "by reducing bureaucracy and re-designing the way the services are delivered".

Pay-cut petition removed from web

COUNCIL officials have removed a petition calling for its chief executive's salary to be cut.

The e-petition calling for her salary to be cut was put on the council's website. But the council removed it, deeming it "inappropriate" as it cannot lawfully take such action.

Eric Whitfield, Suffolk County Council's monitoring officer, said "The council's provision for receiving and dealing with e-petitions is included in its constitution, and reflects the legislation and the national guidance for local authorities set out in the Government's model scheme.

"Full council is not able to vote on the alteration of individual terms and conditions. It was my view, as the council's monitoring officer, that this petition was inappropriate as it was calling for the council to take action which it is not lawfully able to take."

The Weekly News reported how a row broke out over Mrs Hill's pay when she was appointed to the post in 2008.

The other large chunk of the bill goes to Suffolk Police Authority, which currently received £160.74 a year for a band D property.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's leader Cllr John Griffiths is planning a council tax freeze, but the decision will be discussed as part of the budget process by the cabinet on February 16, with a final decision on March 1.

Haverhill Town Council is considering putting up its council tax bill to secure future funding for the town's arts centre, before Government legislation comes into force which could lead to a costly referendum to having to be held before an increase could be made.

A decision will be made on Tuesday after councilors receive a presentation from Alex Wilson, from the borough council on future grant aid for the centre.

The increase proposed would cost around 25p a week for the average rate payer.

Date set for clothing sale

A BABY and children's nearly-new clothing and toys sale has been organised at the Thurlow pre-School group on Saturday, March 5, from 10am - noon.

Claire Addison, from the pre-school committee, said: "This is a fantastic opportunity to buy toys, games and books, children's clothes and baby equipment. The entrance fee 50p so please come along to buy quality second-hand items."

Proposal for new homes

PLANS to build three two-bedroom terraced houses and make alterations to vehicle and pedestrian accesses have been submitted to planners. The plans for land at Coups Close, Haverhill, have been submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Pub chain pledges investment

A PUB chain has spent more than £400,000 renovating its hostels and says its mission is to invest more and help local pubs thrive.

In the last few months, Punch Taverns has spent cash on a number of projects, including £58,000 at the White Hart in Haverhill, which now boasts a brighter look and a new menu.

The company is also looking for people interested in running their own pub.

Regional operations manager Mark Francis said: "We are committed to ensuring our estate is second to none when it comes to the quality of amenities for customers – and increasingly this includes providing a first-class food offer."

"Working closely with our licensees in the area, East Anglia will continue to be an important focal point for investment in our pubs."

Other completed developments in East Anglia include the Horses-hoes on Moulton Road, Newmarket, which has undergone a £51,000 transformation.

Pupils unite to deal with coastal flooding scenario

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PUPILS lent a hand to deal with a major coastal flood as part of an exercise to see how emergency planning measures would cope.

More than 100 youngsters aged between 14-17 from schools across Suffolk were involved, including some from Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College in Haverhill.

They took part in Exercise Storm Surge, a mock situation of the emergency planning needed if Felixstowe flooded.

The exercise, at Suffolk Police headquarters, was organised by Suffolk Education Business Partnership, Suffolk Joint Emergency Planning Unit and Felixstowe and District Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT).

The scenario noted that 5,000 people were in distress and in need of assistance, along with 20 vulnerable people. Water supplies were contaminated, the A14 was blocked and the substation was flooded, resulting in electric power being lost in 400 homes.

During the day, the pupils

Day of disaster: pupils get to work on their action plans at Suffolk Police headquarters.

CP

completed four exercises including considerations for a flood warning, prioritising potential issues, an interview with the media and a one-minute radio broadcast update to the public.

The pupils were split into teams with at least one pupil from each school. The teams then presented what they had learnt to a panel of judges made up of the mayor and mayoress of Felixstowe, the mayor of Ipswich, deputy chief constable Jacqui Cheer and assistant chief fire officer Phil Embury, from Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service.

Inspector Steve Gallant, from Felixstowe and District SNT, said: "The pupils worked really hard and I was impressed at the effort they displayed.

"The feedback showed that the pupils gained not only knowledge of the role and responsibilities of emergency services but also gained confidence and teamwork skills."

"I would like to say a big thank you to all of the partnership agencies that donated their time."

Trailer and ramps stolen

THIEVES broke into a garage by forcing a door and stole an aluminium trailer and two ramps.

The theft happened at Attleton Green, Wickhambrook, between 8.30pm and 9pm last Thursday.

A blue Subaru Impreza towing a trailer with a second trailer on top, was seen driving away from the property.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Robert Sippitt on (01284) 774100.

Water tower application

AN application to continue using a water tower and summer house converted into additional living accommodation without compliance with a planning condition has been made to a council.

The change would mean that the building can be occupied by persons not associated with the nearby nursing home at Eastcotts House, Calford Green, Kedington. The application was made to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Horse centre seeks change

AMENDMENTS to approved plans for a village equestrian centre have been received by a council.

The application to St Edmundsbury Borough Council amends the approved scheme by including pitched roofs and changes open structures at the Equestrian Centre, The Street, Stoke by Clare.

Conversion bid at barn

PLANS to convert a barn, granary and shed/stable to residential use as a single dwelling have been received by planners.

The plans submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council for Simms Farm, Simms Lane, Kedington, also include replacement of an existing shed with a covered parking structure to serve the farmhouse.

Extension to car park

RE-SUBMITTED plans to build an extension to a car park have been received by planners.

The application to extend the parking area at the Recreation Ground, Great Thurlow, has been made to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Be my Valentine

Get ready for a blooming good day on February 14

AS with many festivals and celebrations, the roots of Valentine's day are somewhat mysterious.

Even 'Valentine' himself is up for debate, with numerous early Christian martyrs going by the name. One possible candidate is an Italian priest named Valentine who became a hero of romance. When Emperor Claudius II decided that single men made better soldiers and outlawed marriage for his army, the noble Valentine defied him by continuing to wed soldiers, but proving the course of true love never did run smooth he was sadly discovered and put to death as a result.

In AD 496, Pope Gelasius declared February 14 to be Saint Valentine's Day, and it became a time for Christian feasts (so anyone who claims the day was invented by greeting card companies is incorrect.)

The first record of St Valentine's Day being associated with romance comes from Geoffrey Chaucer in Parlement of Foules, in which he wrote: "For this was on seynt Volantynys day/ Whan euery bryd comyth there to chese his make." He wrote this to celebrate the engagement of Richard II to Anne of Bohemia, and it translates as: "For this was St Valentine's Day, when every bird comes there to choose his mate."

In the year 1400, a court was opened in Paris, known as the High Court of Love, and was designed to deal with matters of the heart: marriage contracts, divorce and infidelity. The first Valentine's letter was written in 1415, by France's Duke of Orleans to his wife, when he was held captive in the Tower of London.

The Young Man's Valentine Writer, a book designed to help the tongue-tied find their inner lothario with a selection of romantic verse, was issued by a British publisher in 1797. By that point, printers had already begun producing a limited number of cards containing sketches and verses. The reduction in postal rates the following century made sending cards more accessible to a mass market, and the Valentine's card was here to stay, with an estimate 25 million cards now sent every year.

Say it with flowers: Or balloons if that's what works!

Valentine's Day is, of course, an important day for florists, who make more than 32 per cent of their annual sales during that week.

A time to invest in each other

And one final suggestion – there's always one thing your partner is always nagging you to do, whether it's doing the washing up more often, taking up a hobby with them or babysitting while they have a night out. This year, just agree to do it. It's a cheap gift, and one they are sure to appreciate.

Had good customer service? Make sure it's rewarded . . .

THIS week, as the judges are announced for the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Business Awards 2011, Weekly News readers have been asked to send in nominations for the Customer Service award.

The new award will honour an organisation or individual demonstrating outstanding levels of customer service.

For the first time, this year's awards will allow customers or clients to vote for companies or individuals online through the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce website, www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhill.

If you've been impressed by the customer service you've received from a local business, go online and make sure they're in the running to win.

Judges for the other 12 awards categories have also been revealed. They will be John Dugmore, chief executive of the Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, Jan Cavelle, who runs her own successful furniture company and Jenny Chapman, business editor of our sister paper, the Cambridge News.

John Dugmore took over the role as chief executive of Suffolk Chamber, Industry & Shipping in 2006. Prior to that he was the divisional director – client services for Liverpool Chamber of Commerce & Industry.

He joined Liverpool Chamber from the University of Central

John Dugmore

Lancashire, where he was the business development officer, responsible for the university's income generation and external services. He has been active across the British Chamber movement, chairing national groups such as the membership 21st Century Strategy Group and was on the National Commercial Services Group and Chief Executive Board.

He is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Marketing.

Jan Cavelle runs Jan Cavelle Furniture Company, based in Haverhill, which makes top-end furniture for interior designers. Their furniture goes all over the world from China to the Cayman

Jan Cavelle

Island. Starting from a shelf under the stairs at her home with two young children to support, Jan now employs more than 30 staff.

No stranger to awards ceremonies, Jan won the Institute of Director's East of England Enterprise award, the Anglian Business Person of the Year award and the Decade of Excellence award at the National Sales Awards. She is also an ambassador for Enterprise UK.

Jenny Chapman has been business editor of the News since 1998 and for the past two years editor of Cambridge Business magazine. She is also the author of 10 books, both fiction and non-fiction.

Jenny said: "I have run my own businesses in the past and our family business is in day nurseries, my husband having built up a chain of 10 following the late and unexpected arrival of our daughter Quinta when I was 40."

The awards will be presented at Chilford Hall, Linton, on Saturday, May 14.

We can all help to keep town on track

AS West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock calls on local businesses to nominate for the Chamber of Commerce Business Awards, he looks ahead to a prosperous future for Haverhill.

As Haverhill's MP over the past nine months, I have thoroughly enjoyed working for a town that is on the up.

I know that a lot of hard work by many people over the years has meant that Haverhill has made a name for itself as a town growing in size and self-confidence. I am determined to build on the achievements of the past decade or so, to ensure Haverhill makes the most of the opportunities of the next decade.

I have learned how strong Haverhill's sense of community is. It was a pleasure to visit the Salvation Army lunch on Christmas Day, with Martha and the children. It was packed, and could only be put on thanks to the dedication and selflessness of the many volunteers who made it happen. Likewise, Haverhill's two upper schools – Samuel Ward and Castle Manor – are led by dedicated heads and teachers and have been recognised for the huge strides forward they have made in recent years. I see the improvements at the schools as a symbol of where Haverhill is heading, as our youngsters receive some of the best education on offer.

Haverhill is known as a hub for business and development. Further improvement is in the pipeline with a proposed new business park, and I hope we can look forward to increased job opportunities when this and other projects go ahead. With Haverhill's close links to Cambridge, I want to see people investing here creating the high-tech jobs of the future, improving housing, reducing crime and improving the attractions of the high street. It is vital that we recognise the achievements of local business so I would encourage all local businesses to make nominations for the Haverhill Chamber of Commerce Business Awards – we must make sure we celebrate the huge contributions local businesses bring to the town and foster the spirit of innovation and hard work in the local area.

Given the state of the economy, and the tight budgets that are unfortunately necessary to put the nation's finances back on track, I am determined to support Haverhill through these difficult times.

We all know that Haverhill is not without its problems. So it is vital for people from all sectors, and all political persuasions, to keep working together so we can reach the more prosperous times ahead.

Tomorrow I am holding a meeting for Haverhill's council, business, public service and voluntary sector to think about the next steps for the town, and to ensure we keep up the momentum.

To nominate for the awards, go to www.suffolkchamber.co.uk/haverhill and follow the 'Business Awards' link. You can also buy tickets to the gala ball, priced at £63.83 (plus VAT) per person or £600 (plus VAT) for a table of 10.

Friday drinks add to teen care fund

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A WINE tasting night produced a profit of almost £500 for the Teenage Cancer Trust.

The Friday Network, a not-for-profit business networking group, presented a cheque for £460 to the charity earlier this month.

The wine tasting took place at Birdbrook Community House in December, with wine donated by Birdbrook-based C2C Wines.

The networking group – founded by Kate Anstee, the Time Finder Agency in Castle Camps, Jenni Bradnam, from Travel Counsellors in Kedington, and Denise Lindsell, from Hardcastle Burton LLP in Royston – brings together 20 business people each month.

The Teenage Cancer Trust has been chosen as the group's charity for 2011.

Ms Lindsell said: "We were extremely pleased with the turn out for our first fundraiser for the trust with many people from the local business community coming along to show their support and enjoying a wonderful evening tasting wines and food from local businesses.

"We had so much fun that we are planning another in June."

She added: "Almost everyone has, at some time, known someone affected by cancer but it is particularly distressing when young people are diagnosed.

"Teenagers, who should be thinking about going out with their friends, studying and looking to the future are suddenly hit with devastating news and they and their families are looked after and supported by Teenage Cancer Trust.

"We are delighted to be supporting this charity in its very important work."

Helen Bearfield-Smith from Teenage Cancer Trust, thanked all those who helped raise the money, which will go towards the construction cost of a teenage cancer care unit at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge.

She said: "I am delighted that the Friday Network has chosen to support the charity with further fundraisers this year."

The group's next meeting is on Friday, February 18 at Abington Hall from 12.45pm to 2.45pm and will feature a tour of the hall and a talk on its history.

Tickets are £16 and can be booked online at www.fridaynetwork.com

Police 'will track known offenders'

POLICE officers will follow known criminals in a three-month operation.

More than 100 criminals across Suffolk, including some in Newmarket, will be targeted for "close monitoring" by the police.

Police say they could also be followed into the Haverhill area.

Known offenders will be told by letter that they are going to be watched and filmed. They will also be offered support from the Suffolk Drug and Alcohol Action Team (DAAT) if they have substance abuse problems.

Operation Apache, as the campaign is being called, is the first of its kind in Suffolk.

Det Insp Andy Footer said the operation would help tackle crimes such as burglary, thefts from cars and street robberies.

He said: "If we follow these individuals, they cannot commit any crime. It really is that simple.

"By offering the help they need for any drugs dependencies we can remove their motive for committing burglaries in the first place, which can be to fund a drugs habit. This in turn can achieve a longer term reduction in offences committed by the individual."

Officers will use hand-held or helmet cameras to film the criminals.

Det Insp Footer said: "The Human Rights Act requires us to balance the rights of the individual and the rights of the community. We consider it our duty to protect the community from the reprehensible acts of these individuals we are targeting.

"We are not dealing with nuisance youths or children; these are active and prolific offenders, who by their illegal activities cause misery to local residents.

"If they don't like it, they can stop committing crimes."

Call to companies to help community

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

BUSINESSES are being urged to join forces with the police to help improve the quality of life for Haverhill residents.

Suffolk Police and Suffolk Chamber of Commerce are encouraging businesses to sign up to the Safer Suffolk Foundation membership scheme. Chief Constable Simon Ash launched the scheme in Ipswich on Monday.

The scheme is supported by the Suffolk Chamber of Commerce as part of the chamber's themed year, Suffolk – A Shared Community, an initiative designed to inspire local businesses about the benefits of community engagement.

The Safer Suffolk Foundation is Suffolk Constabulary's charitable arm, set up in 2009 to help manage the constabulary's charitable donations by offering financial support to organisations which seek to improve the quality of life for Suffolk people.

Money for these grants is generated by the sale of lost or stolen items that, despite police's best efforts, cannot be reunited to their rightful owner.

By joining the scheme, businesses will be recognised as the type of organisation that wishes to put something back into the community, as their membership subscriptions will help support projects in Suffolk. So far, the Safer Suffolk Foundation has supported more than 45 organisations with grants of up to £2,000.

Mr Ash said: "Local communities know the issues that affect them, which is why funding for grassroots projects that directly impact on the quality of life for those living and working in Suffolk is so important."

President of Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, Dr Peter Funnell, said: "The Safer Suffolk Foundation allows your business to support local projects."

Win with tales of romance . . . good or bad!

Either way, with February 14 approaching fast, our sister paper, the Cambridge News, has two fantastic prizes for two lucky couples. All you need to do is write about your loved one's romantic efforts – good or bad.

Soak up sounds of Spain

A celebrated virtuoso of the flamenco guitar, Juan Martin, will bring a welcome taste of southern Spain to the dark days of February when he performs at Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday.

Juan, who has been voted into the top three guitarists in the world by US magazine Guitar Player describes flamenco as the Mediterranean blues.

He said: "In life, there are certain things that appeal to your soul and flamenco is soulful ... it reflects the poetry and emotions of people. It's wonderful that you have the rhythm in your feet and the rhythm gets into your bones."

Looking back on his long career, Juan said: "One of the many highlights was being asked to perform at Pablo Picasso's 90th birthday celebrations in 1971."

Juan interpreted a number of Picasso's paintings through his music and this led to an inspired album, Picasso Portraits.

He said: "I also had an unexpected hit with the love theme to the television series The Thorn Birds. It was an exciting time and I appeared on Top of the Pops on the same night as Queen."

Juan is also the author of two best-selling flamenco guitar teaching books, has recorded 18 CDs and the soundtrack to two films and has performed at international festivals from Montreux to Hong Kong – and at the First World Guitar Congress in the USA.

In 2004 he played in Tehran to 9,000 people over three nights.

El Mundo in Spain said "he has a terrifyingly good technique and absolute dominance of the guitar", while The Age in Melbourne said "no flash, just loads of panache".

Gallery shines light on musical legend's art

A prestigious one-month exhibition of pictures by music legend Bob Dylan is being held at the new Castle Fine Art gallery in Rose Crescent, Cambridge.

His works went on show this week, and queues look set to form as fans seek to get their hands on one of the limited edition graphics or prized one-off originals, all personally signed by Dylan himself.

The Drawn Blank Series features brand-new limited edition graphics, taken from drawings he created while on the road from 1989 to 1992.

While Dylan has been a committed visual artist for more than four decades, the Drawn Blank Series has cast a vibrant new light on the singular creativity of one of the world's most important and influential cultural figures.

Marisha Pessl wrote in the New York Times: "In Bob Dylan's extraordinary collection of paintings, we are given insight into the expressive, unvarnished way this artist approaches the world and reminded 'he is that rare person who can move effortlessly between music, word, ink and paint...'"

"Yet again and again, he reflects life back to us with a truth and simplicity that defy words.

BY JENNIFER SHELTON

"His brush strokes are like his voice, straightforward, rough, occasionally fragile, but always intent on illustrating the treads of human experience. Seemingly unworried about how something looks, he's not after artistic perfection but something larger, a moment, a feeling. The effect is enthralling."

These expressive works capture Dylan's chance encounters and combine the everyday with the extraordinary and the intimate, personal moments in Dylan's time.

According to Dylan: "I... was just drawing whatever I felt like drawing, whenever I felt like doing it."

"The idea was always to do it without affectation or self-reference, to provide some kind of panoramic view of the world as I was seeing it."

■ The Drawn Blank Series, Castle Fine Art, Rose Crescent, Cambridge, until February 28. Contact (01223) 365527 or email rosecrescent@castlefineart.com. Opening times are 9.30am-5.30pm Monday to Saturday and 11am-4.30pm Sundays.

BRUSHSTROKES: Bob Dylan's Horse, from the exhibition.

Theatre date for lovers

CAMBRIDGE University's Marlowe Society kick-starts the spring season at Cambridge Arts Theatre with a fresh take on Shakespeare's zesty comedy of romance and revelry, Much Ado About Nothing.

The play centres around two pairs of lovers who seem destined to be together, but practical jokes and spiteful subterfuge conspire to ensure the course of true love doesn't run too smoothly.

Much Ado About Nothing continues the Marlowe Society's successful and long-standing association with Cambridge Arts Theatre.

One of Cambridge University's most well-respected dramatic societies, the Marlowe has produced a wealth of acting talent, including Sir Ian McKellen, Derek Jacobi and Rachel Weisz.

■ Much Ado About Nothing, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, 7.45pm. Tickets from £15. Contact (01223) 503333 / www.cambridgeartstheatre.com

The big film

TANGLED certificate PG 100m

BLONDES certainly have more fun in Disney's glorious animated reworking of the Rapunzel fairytale that marries a hilarious script with dazzling visuals.

The traditional recipe of rousing love ballads and a boo-hiss villain is stirred to perfection by directors Nathan Greno and Byron Howard, who draw heavily from The Little Mermaid as their heroine abandons her tower and explores a world that was previously out of reach.

Crucially, screenwriter Dan Fogelman manages to appeal to both children and adults, peppering his fantasy world with cuddly critters and underscoring the tomfoolery with a romance that tugs the heartstrings without ever becoming cloying.

The 3D format isn't too obtrusive, employed most effectively in a wonderful sequence involving hundreds of fire lanterns.

Once upon a time... princess Rapunzel (Mandy Moore) is abducted from the castle by the scheming Mother Gothel (Donna Murphy), who covets the girl's magical hair. The golden locks shimmer with the secret of eternal youth but must never be cut – or else the hair will lose its power.

Gothel confines the girl to a tower and convinces the child that she must never leave the fortress for fear that she will fall victim to the evils of man. As years pass, Rapunzel longs to explore the world below but must be content with a cheeky chameleon called Pascal as her solitary friend.

Then, as Rapunzel celebrates her 18th birthday, swaggering outlaw Flynn Rider (Zachary Levi) happens upon the tower in the secluded clearing and climbs into Rapunzel's bedroom.

At first, the young woman is wary of the intruder but he convinces the fair maiden to disobey Gothel and travel to the castle to witness the annual display of fire lanterns.

Tangled is a delight, carrying us along on Rapunzel and Flynn's haphazard adventure. Vocal performances are almost as lively as the animation and Pascal shamelessly scene-steals from the human characters, to whoops and giggles from younger viewers.

Out with the new, in with the old

ONCE renowned for his innovative modernist designs, maverick TV gardener Diarmuid Gavin says trends are increasingly heading towards a return to traditional gardens where the plants are the stars.

He's pleased that the age of shiny stainless steel, bright blue fences and decking once embraced by TV shows has ended.

Having just launched the Ideal Home Show's first garden design competition to celebrate the best examples of sustainable practice in garden design and support young and emerging UK students in the field, he's expecting a rush of eco-awareness.

"There will be a generation of students who grew up in a time when gardening was manic on television. I'm expecting big eco-awareness. That generation will know how important it is in terms of sourcing materials, saving water and making compost. I would hope for a refinement of all the madder ideas that have been around for years."

He goes on: "The wheel is turning back to the craft of gardening. People's first love is plants, understanding the soil

by Hannah Stephenson

and understanding the environment. That's the very trendy thing, which is healthy."

Fruit and vegetable growing will continue this year and in the longer-term future, he predicts.

"The big trend will remain 'grow-it-yourself'. Companies will come out with kit forms of raised beds made from wood, compost mixes and seed mixes, along with manuals on how to grow basic vegetables to educate your children and feed your family.

"In terms of materials and planting schemes, it's back to the style of garden we remember from our childhood. The grander, more old-fashioned style and colour in terms of herbaceous plants, and a kind of appreciation of tradition.

"A lot of natural stone will be used and salvage material will be appreciated. There will be less concrete."

BACK TO BASICS: Diarmuid Gavin says gardeners will be turning their backs on decking and stainless steel in favour of traditional plant-orientated displays.

These days, Gavin agrees he is commissioned to design much more traditional gardens in general.

"People want to be comforted and indulged. They want to see the qualities of tradition for which Britain is so well known. They want to embrace tradition in a realistic way."

But for people who have smaller town gardens and not much time for maintenance, minimalist will always be in vogue, he says, while the popularity of low-maintenance plants is surging.

"The arrival of ornamental plants such as grasses, mass planting of lavender and Buxus sempervirens in a more contemporary way works very well, so keep it simple. For most gardens the palette of plants is relatively limited because you have to acknowledge how people live.

"There will be more evergreens and people will appreciate grasses like carex. If you planted bronze carex a few years ago, people thought you were planting something that was dead.

"Now there's a more naturalistic feel through an appreciation of foliage and different hues, supplemented with bulbs. It's uncomplicated but wonderful."

He is currently having his garden in Co. Wicklow completely refurbished and says it will all centre on herbaceous borders, with a folly at the end.

He notes that after two harsh winters gardeners will need to reconsider which species they grow.

"Dicksonias (tree ferns) have taken a bashing. We used to use Cordyline australis everywhere but many have been killed off, as have lots of hebes. We have to decide whether our ambition should be to continue to go for the exotic if we don't live in a protected area.

"Perennials are the quintessential basis for the English cottage garden. Now, with Monty Don coming back to Gardeners' World, I think they have a very promising future."

■ Diarmuid Gavin is the ideal gardens ambassador at the Ideal Home Show, sponsored by Hydropool, at London's Earls Court, March 11-27. He will be at the show offering advice on home garden innovations. Book tickets on 0844 415 4144 or www.idealhomeshow.co.uk

Kia's new city car cuts fuel and CO2 use

COST-CONSCIOUS motorists will benefit from the next generation Kia Picanto's greatly reduced CO2 emissions and improved fuel economy when the firm's latest A-segment hatchback goes on sale in late spring.

Making its global premiere at the Geneva Motor Show in March, the new Picanto is longer than the previous model and, with an extended wheelbase, promises more passenger comfort and 27 per cent increased cargo space.

Offered for the first time with a choice of five-door and three-door bodystyles – the three-door will arrive in the autumn – it is set to redefine its position as one of the most competitive vehicles in the 'city car' A-segment.

Buyers of a new Picanto will have a choice of up to four all-new super-efficient powertrains – three versions of the 1-litre, three-cylinder Kappa engine (petrol, flex fuel and bi-fuel) and a single 1.2-litre four-cylinder petrol Kappa power unit.

Power outputs will range from 67 to 82bhp, with maximum torque between 94 and 121Nm. Exhaust emissions have been significantly reduced, so that regular models in the new Picanto line-up will have a CO2 rating of 95 to 105g/km. The bi-fuel 1-litre engine will generate 80bhp and 94 Nm of torque. Fuel economy for all engines is also improved.

Some models will be available with Kia's fuel-stretching ISG technologies, cutting emissions to between 90 and 100g/km and further improve fuel economy.

The engines will be mated to a choice of five-speed manual or four-speed automatic transmissions, depending on model.

As well as offering new levels of powertrain efficiency, the new Picanto boasts a distinctive exterior, sophisticated interior, and numerous 'large car' advanced comfort and safety features including LED daytime running lights, button-start with smart key, grip-type outside door handles along with a minimum of six airbags.

Pricing will be announced closer to the launch date.

"We're looking forward to having a three-door Picanto for the first time," said EMG Motor Group, Cambridge, general manager Kevin Driscoll, which has the Kia franchise for the region. "It's sure to stand out on its own and will open up the marketplace."

Kia Picanto sheds least, says Parker's depreciation report

THE Kia Picanto lost the least amount of money through depreciation in 2010, according to a new report.

The car-buying website Parker's conducted its annual investigation based on the average private resale values for 12-month-old cars with 10,000 miles on the clock.

In 2010 the Kia Picanto lost just £1,247 (around £3.42 a day) compared to £1,760 in 2009 and has climbed to the top with improved depreciation over the course of a year.

Because of the low purchase price the depreciation for the Picanto was around 20 per cent – meaning that sellers will get around 80 per cent of the original purchase price after a year of ownership.

Value brands dominated the top of the leaderboard, partly as a result of cheap purchase prices, but also due to vastly improved model ranges and extensive warranties, such as Kia's seven-year warranty.

THE KIA PICANTO: Loses just £3.42 a day.

The Honda Jazz, which was in first place last year, has slipped to 76th position after losing £2,517 in 2010 as opposed to £1,379 in 2009. This is largely due to the model being a year older and with more second-hand examples the oversupply has pushed down values.

Small cars held 36 of the top 50 places due to their low initial purchase price and the increasing demand for efficient, cheap-to-run cars, but 12 of the positions in the top 50 were held by 4x4s, up from seven last year.

Kieren Puffett, editor of Parker's, said: "New entries into the top 10 this year include the Skoda Yeti, the Audi Q5 and the Daihatsu Terios, all 4x4s, reflecting the increased level of interest in that sector. This is probably due to a change in perception due to improvements in off-roaders' efficiency and the threat of persistent cold winters."

A general trend shown in the results is that average depreciation for the year was slightly higher, at 34 per cent, compared to 2009's 33 per cent average.

Lancer Juro special edition is incredible value

MITSUBISHI has announced details of the Lancer 1.5 Juro special edition.

The special edition model is based on the current Lancer 1.5 GS2 but Mitsubishi has introduced black leather upholstery and a Kenwood integrated satnav system which also includes a reversing camera as standard.

The Lancer Juro features a high level of standard kit including black leather seats; Kenwood multimedia system; Bluetooth; 6-inch alloys and climate control. The price is £14,749.

McKay, Marshall break Haverhill duck

>> UNDER-SEVEN

IMPROVING Haverhill recorded their first win of the season in their two-game series against Royston and Stowmarket. They were beaten by a late Royston try in a match which ended 35-30, Kai Rintoul and Aidan Denty scoring their first tries for the club to add to scores from Ben Marshall and Ben McKay.

However, growing in confidence, they beat Stowmarket 35-25 with McKay and Marshall bossing the game. Harry Lawrence, Neve Quinn, Rintoul and Aidan Denty also played their part in the ground-breaking win.

>> UNDER-EIGHT

HAVERHILL faced their biggest challenge of the season so far when they took on Stowmarket and a fast and strong unbeaten Royston side.

>> Football

They started off with a 25-25 draw against Royston, going behind to an early try but responding with four tries from Hayden Lawrence and a jinking run from Oliver Loveridge. However, only strong defensive work from Marshall McKay and Luke Wheeler prevented their rivals from stealing victory. Despite being reduced to six players, Haverhill eased past Stowmarket 35-20 with tries from skipper Luke Wheeler, Charlie Harvey (2), Lawrence (3) and a touch-down in the corner from the speedy Craig Martin-Gowing. And despite fatigue caused by a sticky pitch, they then beat Royston 40-30, rallying from a half-time deficit to launch a spirited comeback. Three tries from Lawrence and another from Loveridge kept them in touch after Royston ran in two early tries, and a brilliant try from Oscar Harwood levelled matters after the break. A length-of-the-field effort from Craig Martin-Gowing kick-started the revival and he completed a hat-trick to seal victory.

>> UNDER-11

WITH Jack Sizer and Max Walker making their first appearances for a year, hopes were high that Haverhill could produce good performances against Stowmarket. However, despite some good flowing rugby and some impressive work by the forwards, they lost the first game 12-0, going close to scoring when new fly-half Josh Moseley was held up over the line. The second game was a much closer affair. Sizer and man-of-the-match Kit Browne – rounding off a break by Oliver Cooper and Tyler Neill – scored the tries, both converted by Brandon McKay, in a 17-14 defeat.

Marsh lifts Rovers

Comberton Crusaders 0 Haverhill Rovers 3 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14D HAVERHILL climbed off the bottom of the division after victory in a relegation six-pointer.

Mitchell Forshaw scored his first goal for the club after his switch from Kedington – he pounced on the rebound after Joe Mustoe's shot hit the bar – and could have had more but for an inspired performance from the Comberton keeper.

However, it needed two late goals from Tom Marsh to seal the points.

Needingworth 0 Haverhill Rovers 2 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C IT was not until deep into the second half that Rovers managed to see off the in-form Needingworth side.

Until that point, the home keeper had managed to repel their first-half efforts while the Rovers defence coped well with a counter-attacking side.

However, Corey Slater ended the deadlock with a rasping drive and John Burrell clinched the points with a header from a well-worked corner.

Kedington 5 Spartak 78 0 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13 KO Cup GEORGE Mustoe struck late in the twice-postponed tie to ensure Kedington progressed comfortably to the next stage.

Skipper Jason Moore ended the midfield stalemate with the first goal before a blunder by the Spartak keeper – his poor goal kick went straight to Jamie Lingard, who fired in – put Kedington in charge.

The third was the best goal, Jack Ferguson coolly curling the ball over the keeper after a penetrating move, while Mustoe's first came from Moore's defence-splitting pass and his second came courtesy of Conor Rankin.

West Wrattling 4 Haslingfield 1 Cambridge and District colts League, under-14B WEST Wrattling had to bounce back after they were rocked by a sixth-minute goal. They were level before the break, Robert Foster blasting home after a four-man move led to him being teed up by Earle Lambert.

However, it took a superb save from Aaron Millar in the second half to set Wrattling on their way, killing the game off in a 10-minute purple patch which yielded two goals for Lambert, and one for Rory Jebb.

West Wrattling 5 Parkfield 0 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A WEST Wrattling chose the right day to give their best performance of the season so far, inflicting the heaviest defeat of the campaign on their March rivals to leapfrog them into third place in the table.

Pinker struck both first-half goals with Biggs sending a superb arcing long-range shot over the keeper to make it 3-0.

Vernon stopped Parkfield getting a toe-hold in the game by saving a penalty, a reality check that jolted Wrattling into action and further goals from O'Neill and Percy made the scoreline more emphatic.

Jenkin nips in to save point

PAUL Jenkin made certain of a 1-1 draw for West Wrattling at Whittlesford in the Premier Division.

Wrattling keeper Alex Craig saved a penalty after Jenkin handled before Matt Glass gave the hosts the lead with a 25-yard drive in the first half.

But Jenkin made up for his earlier mistake by netting the equaliser for the visitors soon after the interval.

Craig Fleming, the Wrattling boss, said: "It was a fair result. We dominated the second half, but the game petered out a bit."

Beaten Rovers suffer Paynter injury setback

Haverhill Rovers 0 Leiston 1
Ridgeons League, Premier Division

PETER Betts' side delivered another solid performance but it was not enough to stop Rovers from going down to title challengers Leiston on Tuesday.

Stuart Wardley almost fired Rovers in front early on with a shot from 35 yards, but his effort was just off target.

Dalton O'Brien had a shot well saved midway through the first half, but the hosts were dealt a blow when new signing Owen Paynter had to come off at half time with a knee injury.

O'Brien again went close for Rovers on the hour mark, but Leiston scrambled home the decisive goal eight minutes later and now sit on top of the table.

Haverhill will be looking to regain the winning thread in a home game against Wivenhoe.

CRC 1 Haverhill Rovers 2
Ridgeons League, Premier Division

OWEN Paynter won an 85th-minute penalty on his debut and saw Stuart Wardley convert it as Haverhill beat CRC at the R Costings Abbey Stadium on Saturday.

The visitors made a dream start to proceedings when Marcus Hunt netted with only two minutes gone, but the hosts then played the better football and Luke Berry equalised midway through the second period.

However, it was Rovers who finished the game stronger, and Wardley kept his cool from 12 yards after Paynter had tumbled in the box.

"It was a great win as, for long periods, CRC were the better side," said Haverhill manager Peter Betts. "We dug deep and showed a bit of desire."

"We defended really well and we felt there had been a foul before their goal, which came from a set-piece, but they deserved the equaliser as they'd been dominating the game."

"We raised our game after that and Owen won us the penalty. I thought Owen was very impressive and he worked his socks off after not playing for a month."

"He was shattered at the end because he'd given 100 per cent."
